LEGGE MAY BE FARM BOARD CHAIRMAN

LEGGE IS HEAD INTERNATIONAL HARVESTER CO.

CHICAGO MAN CONFERS ALMOST AN HOUR WITH PRES. HOOVER

LEGGE WAS MEMBER WAR INDUSTRIES BOARD, LONG A FRIEND OF PRESIDENT

Washington, June 27.—(UP)—President Hoover has offered the chairmanship of the new federal farm board to Alexander H. Legge of Chicago, president of the International Harvester Company, it was stated at the White House today.

Legge conferred with the president for almost an hour at the executive offices today. Although no official word was forthcoming from the White House, friends of Legge intimates he had been offered the post and had informed the president he would be available.

The appointment with the president was arranged by Secretary of Commerce Lamont, a fellow townsman of Legge.

Legge was a member of the war industries board and long has been an intimate friend of President Hoover.

The White House announced soon after the signing of the farm bill, which authorized the new board, that the chairman probably would be an outstanding business man familiar with agricultural problems.

It was further indicated this selection would come from the middle-western section, most vitally interested in a solution of the farm problem.

Legge's long connection with the farm industry, through the agricultural implement business, it was said, had equipped him with a peculiar knowledge of the farmer's problems, as seen both from the standpoint of the business man and the farmer.

Chicago, June 27.—No word of reports in Washington to the effect that Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester Company, had been offered the chairmanship of President Hoover's proposed federal farm board have been received at Legge's office here.

Legge is out of the city and is not expected here until Saturday. At his office, it was said no one there had heard of such an offer.

The bandits, both armed, ordered the marshal to hold up his hands but instead he reached for his gun and opened fire. All three were said to have emptied their weapons and Harding fell to the floor shot through the arm and leg.

The looters escaped through a back door, jumped into an automobile and fled.

Two suitcases full of clothing were found in the store but nothing was missing.

Harding was taken to a hospital where his condition was said to be favorable.

PALL OF GLOOM SURROUNDS PARTY WELCOMING LINDBERGH

Express Belief That Hoover Favors Increase on Sugar Tariff, Amount However Not Known

STEPHEN LOVE, THE BEET SUGAR MAGNATE, SPEAKS

SENATE FINANCE SUB-COMMITTEE IS CONDUCTING HEARINGS

TOMORROW THOSE WHO FAVOR LOWER DUTY WILL HAVE THEIR INNING

By PAUL R. MALLON
Washington, June 27.—(UP)—Belief that President Hoover favors an increase on the sugar tariff was expressed by Stephen Love, president of the United States Beet Sugar Association, at the senate finance sub-committee sugar hearing today.

Love, referring to conversations with the president, said he was "satisfied that he (Mr. Hoover) favored an increase," but did not know what rate the president might favor.

The opinion was expressed after Senator Connally, democrat, Texas, had interrupted the reading by Love of former President Coolidge's views on the sugar tariff.

"We want to know what President Hoover thinks about the tariff," Connally said.

Love said the Cuban government and Wall Street interests having large holdings in Cuba were the source of most of the anti-sugar tariff propaganda.

"No amount of Cuban propaganda," Love said, "can convince American farmers that they, American citizens, have less right to expect fair and just treatment in tariff matters before congress than residents and investors in Cuba."

The beet and cane sugar industry of this country is in a "serious, critical condition," as the result of the dumping of foreign sugar onto the American market, Love testified. He asserted that Cuba is "producing too much sugar for her own good."

The witness testified that encouragement of the domestic sugar industry would aid in solving the farm relief problem by diversifying agriculture. The production of beet, cane and corn can be greatly expanded and substituted for the production of certain surplus crops.

Washington, June 27.—A strong case for the proposed three-cent sugar tariff is being built up in the senate finance sub-committee now conducting the second day of hearings on the sugar schedule.

The increase from the present world rate of 2.20 cents a pound (or 1.76 cents on Cuban sugar) is being advocated by an army of farm organization representatives with powerful political effect. The American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange and former Secretary of Agriculture Jardine joined in an appeal during the first day of the hearing for a higher duty.

It is estimated the rate they ask, which was accepted in the house bill would cost American consumers between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 a year.

Chairman Smoot and Senator Shortridge, republican, California, are openly endorsing the higher protective rate principle. They, with the floor leader, Watson of Indiana, will comprise a majority of the sub-committee which will conclude the hearings tomorrow and then decide whether the three-cent rate is to be retained.

The two democratic members of the committee, Harrison of Mississippi and Connally of Texas, have indicated they will fight for a reduction. They do not, however, expect to convert either Smoot, Shortridge or Watson.

Although it is customary for each of the sub-committees conducting hearings on the various schedules to make public in advance the list of witnesses, the sugar sub-committee alone has refrained from so doing.

Smoot explained the list has changed so often it would be impossible to present an accurate calendar of witnesses, so he is announcing none.

Those who favor lowering the proposed 3-cent duty are to have their inning today or tomorrow. They include bottlers of sugar beverages, chocolate manufacturers and American investors in Cuban sugar plantations.

Fordham University Seismograph Records Severe Earthquake

New York, June 27.—(UP)—Fordham university reported registering a severe earthquake 6,300 miles distant in an undetermined direction today. CAPTAIN HAWKS FLIES WESTWARD FROM NEW YORK

IN QUEST OF NON-STOP RECORD BETWEEN NEW YORK AND LOS ANGELES

IF HE ARRIVES IN LOS ANGELES WITHOUT STOPPING, WILL START BACK AT ONCE

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 27.—(UP)—Captain Franc Hawks flew westward from this field at 5:12:51 A. M. (eastern daylight savings time) today in quest of a non-stop record between here and Los Angeles.

Should he arrive at Los Angeles without stopping he will refuel and start back immediately in an attempt to break his own west-east record of 18 hours and 22 minutes.

Hawks sent his Lockheed Air Express about 2,000 feet down the runway and then began climbing. After attaining an altitude of 1,500 feet, he headed west. About 150 persons, including Mrs. Hawks, saw the start.

The flyer carried 550 gallons of gasoline, dumping 65 gallons just before he started. Hawks is attempting to break the fastest record of the late C. B. D. Collyer and the late Harry Tucker who flew from the Atlantic to the Pacific in 24 hours.

The plane is equipped with a radio which Hawks will use to receive weather reports. It has a 425 horsepower wasp motor.

Weather observers suggested to Hawks that he follow a route which would take him through Columbus, St. Louis, Kansas City and Denver.

St. Paul, June 27.—H. W. Austin, state purchasing commissioner, was to open bids late today for the manufacture of 1,320,000 automobile license plates for 1930.

PASS HALF WAY MARK, ENDURANCE FLIGHT RECORD

HAUGHLAND AND "THUNDER" JOHNSON WEATHER ELECTRICAL STORMS

SURMOUNTED WORST KIND OF FLYING CONDITIONS LAST NIGHT

Minneapolis, June 27.—(UP)—The halfway mark safely passed during the night of the worst flying conditions, Owen Haugland and Thorwald "Thunder" Johnson today roared on in their monoplane Miss Minneapolis toward what they hoped will be a new world endurance flight record.

Electrical storms and a driving rain beset the fliers during the night and several times made it appear to the scores of ground watchers that the plane must land. Haugland and Johnson scurried about dodging the storm area to weather through the night.

At 7:30 A. M. the Buffalo, Minn., and Minneapolis pilots had flown 98 continuous hours since their take-off from Wold-Chamberlain Field at 5:03 A. M. Sunday.

Haugland and Johnson passed the half way mark of the present record of 172 hours, 32 minutes and 1 second at 7:47 P. M. Wednesday.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., June 27.—Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jensen flew back and forth across Roosevelt field today in the monoplane Three Musketeers in an attempt to break the world refueling endurance record.

At 7:02 A. M., they had been in the air 11 and one-half hours. The Three Musketeers is equipped with a catwalk from the cabin to the motor, enabling Jensen or Mechanic William Ulbrich to make minor adjustments on the engine.

Minneapolis, June 27.—The brilliant red monoplane, Miss Minneapolis, with Owen Haugland and Thorwald (Thunder) Johnson at the controls, today at 9:03 A. M. passed the 100-hour mark on the long grind toward a new world's record endurance flight.

Notes dropped by the fliers indicated the single motor of the cabin plane "was good for another 200 hours" and that they hoped to stay up "until the Fourth of July."

Haugland and Johnson already had ridden the Minnesota skies four days and four nights but still were far from the record of 172 hours, 32 minutes and 1 second established on May 26 at Fort Worth, Texas, by James Kelly and R. L. Robbins.

The pilots of the Miss Minneapolis must, in order to establish a new record, fly at least one hour longer than the Texans did in the Fort Worth or until about 10:30 A. M. next Sunday.

A driving rain storm Wednesday night forced Haugland and Johnson to abandon their 80 miles triangular course between the Twin Cities, Hastings and Northfield, for the milder skies above Wold-Chamberlain field from whence they took off on their arduous project at 5:03 A. M. last Sunday.

Low grey clouds still scudded along in this region today and it was expected the pilots would remain near their home port until the skies cleared.

It was estimated the Miss Minneapolis had flown approximately 7,000 miles at the 100-hour mark.

SOUTHERN CROSS LEAVES DERBY ON WAY TO ENGLAND

Sydney, Australia, June 27.—(UP)—The airplane Southern Cross, piloted by Capt. Charles E. Kingsford-Smith, left Derby, on the north coast, at 5:40 a. m. today enroute to England.

The Southern Cross started from Sydney and hopes to lower the flying time between Australia and England. The next stop of the Southern Cross will be Singapore.

MELLON MOST OPTIMISTIC IN REPORT MADE

AMOUNT AVAILABLE EVEN AFTER PAYMENT TO RAILROADS

TREASURY STATISTICIANS SAY SURPLUS MAY EXCEED THE AMOUNT SET

Washington, June 27.—(UP)—A treasury surplus of approximately $170,000,000 at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1929, was predicted today by Secretary Mellon.

Mellon said the treasury expected to have this amount available in excess of expenditures even after the $45,000,000 payment to railroads necessitated by the interstate commerce commission's decision granting railroads that amount in back railway mail pay.

Treasury statisticians have estimated recently that the surplus may be as high as $200,000,000. President Hoover recently said the budget bureau had advised him there will be a government surplus of more than $100,000,000.

The surplus, which has resulted despite predictions some months ago of a deficit, is attributed by the treasury to increased income tax payments caused by profits obtained by individuals from stock market operations.

SPAIN SEARCHES FOR LOST FLIERS

OFFICIAL HOPE REVIVED OVER REPORT THAT PLANE WRECKAGE FOUND

Madrid, June 27.—(UP)—The Spanish government, aided by the warships of four other European nations, today extended its search for Commander Ramon Franco and three companion fliers who have been missing for nearly six days.

The ministry of marine announced that, in view of even the unconfirmed reports that the wreck of the missing plane was seen west of the Azores and to the south, it had ordered that the searching Spanish cruisers extend their field of operations to the farthest point westward and southward that the fliers could have reached on the fuel they carried.

Numerous persons still are convinced that the missing airmen are alive, floating on the crippled plane, and should be found either today or tomorrow.

Official hope also was revived for a time when a wireless message, supposedly from the British admiralty, stated that the wreckage of the plane had been sighted. The message, however, was so vague that it was not taken seriously.

JAPAN RATIFIES KELLOGG ANTI-WAR TREATY TODAY

Tokio, June 27.—(UP)—The Kellogg anti-war treaty was signed today by the emperor, completing its formal ratification by Japan, last of the 15 original signatories to ratify. The treaty becomes effective among all the signatory powers as soon as Japan's ratification has been deposited at Washington.

The emperor signed the treaty with the interpretative provision attached by the privy council, which holds that the phrase "in the name of their respective peoples" does not hold as applied to the emperor, who signed in his own behalf, not in the name of the Japanese people.

17 FIREMEN HURT, $1,000,000 DAMAGE IN STOCKHOLM FIRE

Stockholm, June 27.—(UP)—Seventeen firemen were injured and more than $1,000,000 damage was done last night by one of the biggest fires on record in Stockholm.

The fire was extinguished after burning almost 24 hours.

Many firemen and bystanders narrowly escaped injury from falling roofs and walls.

The paper factory where the fire started was owned by the Swedish Lithograph Trust and was located in Queen Street, in the center of Stockholm.

Minneapolis, June 27.—The brilliant red monoplane, Miss Minneapolis, with Owen Haughland and Thorwald "Thunder" Johnson at the controls, today at 9:03 A. M. passed the 100-hour mark on the long grind toward a new world's record endurance flight.

Notes dropped by the fliers indicated the single motor of the cabin plane "was good for another 200 hours" and that they hoped to stay up "until the Fourth of July."

Haughland and Johnson already had ridden the Minnesota skies four days and four nights but still were far from the record of 172 hours, 32 minutes and 1 second established on May 26 at Fort Worth, Texas, by James Kelly and R. L. Robbins.

The pilots of the Miss Minneapolis must, in order to establish a new record, fly at least one hour longer than the Texans did in the Fort Worth or until about 10:30 A. M. next Sunday.

A driving rain storm Wednesday night forced Haughland and Johnson to abandon their 89 miles triangular course between the Twin Cities, Hastings and Northfield, for the milder skies above Wold-Chamberlain field from whence they took off on their arduous project at 5:03 A. M. last Sunday.

Low grey clouds still scudded along in this region today and it was expected the pilots would remain near their home port until the skies cleared.

It was estimated the Miss Minneapolis had flown approximately 7,000 miles at the 100-hour mark.

SOUTHERN CROSS LEAVES DERBY ON WAY TO ENGLAND

Sydney, Australia, June 27.—(UP)—The airplane Southern Cross, piloted by Capt. Charles E. Kingsford-Smith, left Derby, on the north coast, at 5:40 a. m. today enroute to England.

The Southern Cross started from Sydney and hopes to lower the flying time between Australia and England. The next stop of the Southern Cross will be Singapore.

MELLON MOST OPTIMISTIC IN REPORT MADE

AMOUNT AVAILABLE EVEN AFTER PAYMENT TO RAILROADS

TREASURY STATISTICIANS SAY SURPLUS MAY EXCEED THE AMOUNT SET

Washington, June 27.—(UP)—A treasury surplus of approximately $170,000,000 at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1929, was predicted today by Secretary Mellon.

Mellon said the treasury expected to have this amount available in excess of expenditures even after the $45,000,000 payment to railroads necessitated by the interstate commerce commission's decision granting railroads that amount in back railway mail pay.

Treasury statisticians have estimated recently that the surplus may be as high as $200,000,000. President Hoover recently said the budget bureau had advised him there will be a government surplus of more than $100,000,000.

The surplus, which has resulted despite predictions some months ago of a deficit, is attributed by the treasury to increased income tax payments caused by profits obtained by individuals from stock market operations.

SPAIN SEARCHES FOR LOST FLIERS

OFFICIAL HOPE REVIVED OVER REPORT THAT PLANE WRECKAGE FOUND

Madrid, June 27.—(UP)—The Spanish government, aided by the warships of four other European nations, today extended its search for Commander Ramon Franco and three companion fliers who have been missing for nearly six days.

The ministry of marine announced that, in view of even the unconfirmed reports that the wreck of the missing plane was seen west of the Azores and to the south, it had ordered that the searching Spanish cruisers extend their field of operations to the farthest point westward and southward that the fliers could have reached on the fuel they carried.

Numerous persons still are convinced that the missing airmen are alive, floating on the crippled plane, and should be found either today or tomorrow.

Official hope also was revived for a time when a wireless message, supposedly from the British admiralty, stated that the wreckage of the plane had been sighted. The message, however, was so vague that it was not taken seriously.

JAPAN RATIFIES KELLOGG ANTI-WAR TREATY TODAY

Tokio, June 27.—(UP)—The Kellogg anti-war treaty was signed today by the emperor, completing its formal ratification by Japan, last of the 15 original signatories to ratify. The treaty becomes effective among all the signatory powers as soon as Japan's ratification has been deposited at Washington.

The emperor signed the treaty with the interpretative provision attached by the privy council, which holds that the phrase "in the name of their respective peoples" does not hold as applied to the emperor, who signed in his own behalf, not in the name of the Japanese people.

17 FIREMEN HURT, $1,000,000 DAMAGE IN STOCKHOLM FIRE

Stockholm, June 27.—(UP)—Seventeen firemen were injured and more than $1,000,000 damage was done last night by one of the biggest fires on record in Stockholm.

The fire was extinguished after burning almost 24 hours.

Many firemen and bystanders narrowly escaped injury from falling roofs and walls.

The paper factory where the fire started was owned by the Swedish Lithograph Trust and was located in Queen Street, in the center of Stockholm.

About ninety relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moilanen pleasantly surprised them Tuesday evening, June 25, at their home at 1224 Oak Street, to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding.

Rev. V. Ranta, in a very fitting manner, presented the couple with a valuable gift. Peonies and other garden flowers were effectively used in decorating their beautiful home.

An enjoyable evening was spent, after which a luncheon was served, and congratulations were extended from all to Mr. and Mrs. Moilanen.

Mrs. Burnett surprised her audience with a few well chosen remarks, and then charmingly introduced Mrs. W. A. Erickson as her substitute on this program. Mrs. Erickson gave a very delightful interpretation of a one act play "The Mayor and the Manicure" by George Ade.

The Brainerd Drama League is indeed fortunate to have two such talented readers as Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Erickson. Mrs. Burnett has given several plays for the Deerwood and Crosby clubs and her play reading is always enthusiastically received.

Following the program, tea was served and a social hour enjoyed.

25TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moilanen Pleasantly Surprised Tuesday Evening

About ninety relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Moilanen pleasantly surprised them Tuesday evening, June 25, at their home at 1224 Oak Street, to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding.

Rev. V. Ranta, in a very fitting manner, presented the couple with a valuable gift. Peonies and other garden flowers were effectively used in decorating their beautiful home.

An enjoyable evening was spent, after which a luncheon was served, and congratulations were extended from all to Mr. and Mrs. Moilanen.

Rev. V. Ranta and Matt Gunnari, of New York Mills, and Mr. and Mrs. Matt Koski of Deerwood were the out of town guests.

READERS AT DEERWOOD
Mrs. W. A. Erickson in Delightful Interpretation for Library Fund

Mrs. C. L. Burnett of the city, was invited to read at the Deerwood Civic League entertainment which was held at Deerwood on Wednesday afternoon. The entertainment was held at the library, and was for the benefit of the library fund.

Mrs. Burnett surprised her audience with a few well chosen remarks, and then charmingly introduced Mrs. W. A. Erickson as her substitute on this program. Mrs. Erickson gave a very delightful interpretation of a one act play "The Mayor and the Manicure" by George Ade.

The Brainerd Drama League is indeed fortunate to have two such talented readers as Mrs. Burnett and Mrs. Erickson. Mrs. Burnett has given several plays for the Deerwood and Crosby clubs and her play reading is always enthusiastically received.

Following the program, tea was served and a social hour enjoyed.

Mrs. Peter Rosko Entertains
Mrs. Peter Rosko entertained about 20 friends yesterday afternoon at her home, in honor of her birthday. The afternoon was spent socially after which a luncheon was served. Mrs. Rosko was the recipient of many gifts.

CHILD HIT BY CAR NEAR DEATH TODAY

Marion Wetherbee Suffers Concussion of Brain When Struck on Highway No. 27

RAN IN FRONT OF CAR

Pine River Boy Also Hit; Reported Improving at St. Joseph's Hospital

One child is near death while another is reported improving at the St. Joseph's hospital this afternoon following accidents yesterday afternoon when they were struck by automobiles on Trunk Highways in the vicinity of Brainerd.

Marion Wetherbee, five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Wetherbee who reside near Crow Wing, sustained a concussion of the brain when she was struck by a Buick car driven by H. F. Dirts, Springfield, Minn., on Highway No. 27 near Crow Wing at 1:20 p. m. yesterday. She is in a critical condition at the local hospital where she was rushed immediately after the accident.

Marion was injured when she ran into the road while playing with her sister Marlys and a friend. The driver of the car reported he was unable to avoid striking her.

Mr. Dirts remained in the city today, inquiring hourly at the hospital as to the condition of the child.

Lawrence Herbin, of Pine River, was also in the hospital today suffering from a fractured skull as a result of an accident yesterday afternoon on Highway No. 19 near Pine River. The five year old boy had stepped out of the car driven by his father Harry Herbin when he was struck by an approaching car driven by a friend of the family.

The boy was reported from the hospital this afternoon as improving.

Camp Clearwater, June 25. — The camping spirit seemed to grow and expand among the scouts of Clearwater today. The desire to learn and advance in scouting manifested itself in many ways. Richard Rice and Robert Jackson passed their first class swimming tests. Paul Hale and Don Keeler completed the map making requirements for first class scouting rank. Several boys are working on nature study. They are waiting for the sky to clear up sufficiently for a study of the stars.

Arthur Martinetto has shown commendable industry along handicraft lines. He has made a candle-holder, a clothes-hanger, and a handle for his cabin door. All of these things he made out of wild material, and without the use of nails.

A lot of industry has been shown by the scouts of the four cabins in use this period in improving the general condition of the camp. Dead trees have been cut, old stumps have been grubbed, handles made on all the doors, the grounds raked, camp fire ring fixed, chair made in front of cabin No. 2 by Paul Hale and Crofton Anderson, coat-hanger made from a small tree with many forked branches, and many other improvements. The Clearwater gang of fellows are a keen bunch and are real proud of each other and of their comradeship together.

A forestry hike was conducted this morning for purposes of instruction in the Tree Department of Nature Study. Each scout was requested to get specimens of as many trees as possible. The woods around camp abound with many varieties, and the boys learned to identify at least 20 by their leaves and bark.

Mr. and Mrs. Armstrong and daughter Nancy of St. Cloud were guests of the camp today. Scout Executive Armstrong seemed to take a great interest in the boys and in the affairs of the camp. We hope and expect he and his wife and daughter will come again soon.

Other visitors at camp during the day were Mr. and Mrs. Crosby and daughter, and son John, of Crosby. Mr. Crosby is scoutmaster there, and is vitally interested in everything related to boys and the out-of-doors. John expects to be with us in camp soon. We will be glad to welcome him among us. We trust that the Crosbys will visit camp often.

Dr. A. A. Steinfeldt and Judge Lamont Koop of Brainerd spent a few minutes in camp after supper today. We are glad they came and expect to see them again.

In accordance with plans made yesterday evening the camp-fire program was in the hands of the scouts. This evening's program was composed of stunts by each of the four patrols, and a few stories by Director S. C. Bakken. At the close every scout put an arm about a brother scout and formed a circle of comradeship.

Then a song, silent prayer, and taps.

TIMOTHY E. TOOHEY DIES AT HIS HOME

Familiar Figure of Brainerd Life Claimed by Heart Disease Last Evening

WAS N. P. VETERAN

At One Time Was President of City Council; Lived Here 40 Years

Quiet in death today were the familiar features of one of Brainerd's most widely known persons, Timothy E. Toohy, who passed away at his home, 201 First avenue N. E., at 7 p. m. yesterday in his 73rd year.

Better known as "Tim," Mr. Toohy is as well known to city residents as the name Northeast is to Brainerd. He had lived 40 years of his life in this city and now in death he will be mourned by as large an acquaintance as any individual here.

Mr. Toohy as a veteran of the Northern Pacific railway attended the N. P. veterans convention at Duluth last week and was one of the most popular veterans at the convention. It was while in attendance there that he first became ill. Death was caused by heart failure.

Although he served as a faithful employee of the Northern Pacific railway as machinist for the majority of his years here he found time to work for the betterment of the city and Northeast. He was a popular alderman and served as president of the city council at one time.

Mr. Toohy was pensioned from the Northern Pacific railway three years ago. He was a member of the St. Francis church, Woodmen and Elks lodges. He came to this city in 1888 from Boy City, Mich. He was born at Nanawau, Ontario.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Emil Hellan, and two sisters, Mrs. T. F. Mooney and Mrs. Margaret Conklin, all of Brainerd. His wife died on March 7, 1929.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

Chautauqua work is proving one of joy to the little folks. Under the capable leadership of Miss Hazel Thomson, Redpath Vawter Chautauqua junior supervisor, the children of Brainerd are being trained in citizenship.

A complete city government has been organized. Yesterday more than 75 children chose from their numbers the following officials of Junior Town:

Clerk—Clara Gendron.
Law and Order Commissioners—Lucile McLaughlin, Donald Hohman and Robert Patterson.
Health Commissioners—Gertrude

Peterson, Edna Peterson and Robert Kimball.

Service Commissioners—Jean Hagberg, Virginia Gendron and Thayer Butcher.

Today at 5:30 P. M. Junior Town will parade through the downtown streets of Brainerd, prizes being offered for best costumes worn.

There will be a track meet Saturday morning and a picnic Monday. Tomorrow at the tent the children will stage a pet show. Each girl will bring her favorite doll and each boy his pet animal. The public is invited to participate in these activities, and to encourage the children by their attendance.

Some time this week, by special arrangement, with the city officials, Junior town will govern the city for one hour. This has proved to be of unusual interest in other cities and of exceptional value to the young officers.

Ed and Earl Koop left this afternoon for St. Cloud where they will visit with relatives and friends for a short time.

Mrs. P. H. Reilly of Missoula, Mont., arrived in the city yesterday to attend the Dunn-Reilly wedding Wednesday morning.

The republican primaries to elect delegates to the county convention on Tuesday, when delegates will be elected to the state convention at St. Paul, were held on Saturday evening at the different voting precincts throughout the city. It was a decided victory for R. C. Dunn, candidate for governor. Of the 39 delegates, 31 are for Dunn as against 8 who favor the nomination of Col-ins. Collins carried but one vote in the city, the fifth, and that only by one vote. There was an even break in the Fourth, but it is claimed that four of the six delegates are for Dunn and two for Collins.

TIMOTHY E. TOOHEY DIES AT HIS HOME

Familiar Figure of Brainerd Life Claimed by Heart Disease Last Evening

WAS N. P. VETERAN

At One Time Was President of City Council; Lived Here 40 Years

Quiet in death today were the familiar features of one of Brainerd's most widely known persons, Timothy E. Toohy, who passed away at his home, 201 First avenue N. E., at 7 p. m. yesterday in his 73rd year.

Better known as "Tim," Mr. Toohy is as well known to city residents as the name Northeast is to Brainerd. He had lived 40 years of his life in this city and now in death he will be mourned by as large an acquaintance as any individual here.

Mr. Toohy as a veteran of the Northern Pacific railway attended the N. P. veterans convention at Duluth last week and was one of the most popular veterans at the convention. It was while in attendance there that he first became ill. Death was caused by heart failure.

Although he served as a faithful employee of the Northern Pacific railway as machinist for the majority of his years here he found time to work for the betterment of the city and Northeast. He was a popular alderman and served as president of the city council at one time.

Mr. Toohy was pensioned from the Northern Pacific railway three years ago. He was a member of the St. Francis church, Woodmen and Hibernians. He came to this city in 1888 from Boy City, Mich. He was born at Nanawau, Ontario.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Emil Hellan, and two sisters, Mrs. F. F. Mooney and Mrs. Margaret Conklin, all of Brainerd. His wife died on March 7, 1929.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

TRAIN CHILDREN IN CITIZENSHIP

Junior Town Organized by Chautauqua Junior Supervisor; Name Officials

PARADE THIS AFTERNOON

Track Meet, Picnic Planned; Will Govern City for One Hour

Chautauqua work is proving one of joy to the little folks. Under the capable leadership of Miss Hazel Thomson, Redpath Vawter Chautauqua junior supervisor, the children of Brainerd are being trained in citizenship.

A complete city government has been organized. Yesterday more than 75 children chose from their numbers the following officials of Junior Town:

Mayor—Mary Hagberg.
Clerk—Clara Gendron.
Law and Order Commissioners—Lucile McLaughlin, Donald Hohman and Robert Patterson.
Health Commissioners—Gertrude

Peterson, Edna Peterson and Robert Kimball.

Service Commissioners—Jean Hagberg, Virginia Gendron and Thayer Butcher.

Today at 5:30 P. M. Junior Town will parade through the downtown streets of Brainerd, prizes being offered for best costumes worn.

There will be a track meet Saturday morning and a picnic Monday.

Tomorrow at the tent the children will stage a pet show. Each girl will bring her favorite doll and each boy his pet animal. The public is invited to participate in these activities and to encourage the children by their attendance.

Some time this week, by special arrangement, with the city officials, Junior town will govern the city for one hour. This has proved to be of unusual interest in other cities and of exceptional value to the young officers.

THE MANGANESE DUTY

WE thought first the tariff provisions on sugar and shoes were to be the most important things about to be subjected to changes in the newly proposed bill, and now find that it strikes still nearer at home.

An organized movement appears to be under way at Washington to put manganese on the free list. Should such a provision be adopted in the new tariff bill, then we see where our Cuyuna iron range, with its manganiferous ore deposits will be hard hit.

It was largely through the efforts of earnest, far-seeing range men headed by the late C. W. Potts that a duty was imposed on manganese ores and gave our range a chance to develop. Take off that duty and it will affect our mining industry.

The Associated Press under date of June 26 from Washington states that removal of the duty on manganese, a raw material used in making steel, and a moderate revision upward of the rate on manufactured iron and steel were recommended before the metals sub-committee of the senate in its tariff bill hearings of that date.

John A. Topping of New York, vice president of the American Iron and Steel institute, asserted that the manganese duty, unchanged in the bill, was "erroneously burdensome."

His opinion was endorsed by L. E. Block of Chicago, chairman of the board of the Inland Steel Co., who also urged an adjustment of the 1922 tariff act with regard to fixing the compensatory tariff on ferro-manganese if manganese was placed on the free list.

Mr. Block pointed out that since 1922 imports of manganese had totaled about eight times the domestic production, and the tariff on it had cost the steel industry $45,771,328. Despite what he termed "this huge subsidy" only a few individuals in the United States are producing manganese, Mr. Block said.

Dr. C. K. Leith of Madison, Wis., representing American Iron and Steel Institute, and former United States mineral advisor at the Versailles peace conference, said that manganese was produced in this country during the war at five times the normal cost and then, with pressure of war, only 35 per cent of the supply demanded was produced.

He said the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical engineers had estimated that there was but a three-year supply of high grade manganese ore in this country and that recent developments in Southern states would not alter that estimate.

SMALL TOWN DESIRES NO EXPERT HELP

THE small town as a whole as well as the small town newspaper solve their own problems and fight out their own salvation without the guidance of any big city experts.

Newspaper men have found that the small town man is able to expand in the big city newspaper, but that it is almost a hopeless proposition to get a big town man to reduce in a small town.

We have read for some time of a conference called by the University of Minnesota, at which small town problems were to be discussed and sage advice given by experts. In fact, as stated in a St. Paul Pioneer Press news story today, 10,000 invitations were sent out for the three days' sessions. And what was the result? The total attendance was 40, of whom the larger proportion were speakers on the program. The paper records these conclusions:

Small town men don't want advice from the big city fellows on how to run their small towns in a big way.

The small towns' conference had been planned on a noble basis. The big city fellows had gotten together and in their altruistic way decided that what the small town men needed was knowledge on the subject "How to run a village for profit, or paying off the mortgage on the old town hall." The meeting Monday brought no delegates, in other words, "it failed to click." Tuesday was the same. Wednesday recorded the 40 attendance, mostly speakers.

So the small towns will continue to solve their own problems without any gratuitous advice from their big town brothers.

THE OLD MILACA TRAIL

SOMETHING new in covers of song sheets is that of "The Old Milaca Trail" sung by the Gold Medal Radio quartet over WCCO. The chorus goes:

My heart is back in Vineland, On the shores of old Mille Lac,
I see a winding highway that seems to draw me back,
A golden western sunset, Transforms the water's hue,
To changing shades of gold and azure blue, blue, blue—
The dark of evening deepens and the moon comes shining through,
I hear the waters lapping, Against our frail canoe
And drifting in the moonlight we breathe "love's old sweet" tale
And watch the flashing headlights on the Old Milaca Trail.

The cover page gives the main trunk highways and the No. 18, Milaca Trail, so that he who drives or sings may see the route in detail.

Many Brainerd people have heard the song on WCCO, words and music being copyrighted by George C. Joslin, Minneapolis.

WHEN a man doesn't work, he grows old, is the wise philosophy enunciated by a man who knows. A man wishing to retire should have at least a hobby to keep him busy. If the active man retires to a life devoid of any effort, he soon deteriorates. Like the athlete who stops training, he grows stale.

THE June 19, New Wilkin County Court House edition of the Gazette-Telegram of Breckenridge is most imposing, carrying 76 pages and 4,507 inches of advertising. Printing and arrangement are excellent. The Gazette-Telegram is a seven column paper.

INCREASED speed permitted on our highways, the growth of cars, the heavier traffic on our highways, all tend to add to traffic mishaps and call for greater caution in driving.

ROMANCE is not bounded by years alone. When a Southern veteran aged 79 marries a girl of 15 he must either have an eye for beauty, for romance or for trouble.

IN order to get any summer at all this year, we should have high temperatures in July and August.

CHAPTER LVII

THERE was always a little stir in the office when Ralph McKevitt came in. "Hello, everybody! How's everything?" Commonplace words, but there was nothing commonplace in the delicious air of intimacy he managed to put into them, and the way his glance went admiringly, warmly, from one girl to the other. A little secret message . . . "You and I understand each other, don't we?"

"He sure has a way with him, hasn't he, honey?" Mrs. Hobbs, the telephone operator sighed, after he had disappeared in Greely's private office.

Miss Yardley opened her vanity and added a little more rouge to her lips before she answered, "Of course. But I think Miss Haines is an awful fool to take him seriously. A man like that isn't going to marry a working girl!"

"You're darn right, honey," Mrs. Hobbs agreed. But she powdered her nose and straightened her hair anyway. She wanted to be looking her best when he went out. You never can tell. . . .

He left Mr. Greely, and for once he failed to say goodbye to them when he hurried through the office, hands in his pockets, hat pulled over his angry eyes.

"Another row with the old man," Mrs. Hobbs mouthed, taking care that the office boy stamping envelopes in his corner wouldn't hear.

Old Mr. Greely rang viciously for Daphne, who in her small private office had missed the news as usual.

She came obediently, bringing her notebook and pencils.

The old man continued to walk up and down, taking no notice of her, and she waited patiently, her face a study of furious gestures. Even his muffled cursing didn't disturb her any more, she hadn't seen his secretary nearly a year for nothing.

"He's a fool, I tell you!" he shouted finally, waving his long arms at her. "A blankety-blank blank fool!"

"Who is, Mr. Greely?" "Young McKevitt," he said after a long pause, and went and sat at his desk, exhausted by his passion.

Daphne got him a glass of water, and he wiped his perspiring forehead and said a little more gently, "Young men aren't what they used to be, Daphne. . . . you should have lived forty, fifty years ago. . . . those were the days. Men were men, and women were women, and no having to look twice to see which was which."

You'd have looked well, my girl, with woman's dress, and the hair on your head God meant you to have, and none of this bobbed hair nonsense, young girls running around trying to look like tired business men with their necks shaved like burglars and their mouths painted like . . . hum . . . what was I saying about young McKevitt? . . . by the way, Daphne said, smiling, and wondering miserably whether the joy of being able to talk about Ralph compensated for the pain of hearing Mr. Greely rail against him.

points, why couldn't he feel his charm, all too obvious to her?

The old man studied her shrewdly. Twice he seemed about to speak, but the mumbled words never got beyond his stubby gray mustache.

"Get along with you, and leave me alone. I'm in no mood to dictate," he said at last.

She picked up her note book, inexplicably disappointed. He had been about to say something. Something, she felt intuitively, that would have mattered very much to her.

At the door she turned back, paused for a moment. Hoping he would change his mind.

"You don't understand Ralph," she said, when it was plain he was not going to speak. "He isn't perfect—but he's a man—a real man."

The old man was staring at her with a curious, impersonal intensity. His face, as if by magic, found herself unable to go on. For the first time in her life, Daphne was afraid of John Greely. His ravaged, thin old face had the pitiless terrible look of some beaked bird of prey.

She knew, suddenly, what Ralph had meant when he called him an old devil. Why, the girls didn't envy her job as his private secretary. Why Mr. Sanderson and Mr. McMurtrie and all their world entered his presence with self conscious coughs, and clearing of throats. . . .

She had heard the things they had said about him, the things that were whispered on California street, but she had never believed them before. He had never been the arrogant, powerful John Greely to her. . . . just Mr. Greely who was getting old, and had been kind to her. . . .

He must have guessed what she was thinking. He half smiled, and then he said, quite gently, "You are very young, Daphne. . . . By the way, I've changed my mind about that special work you were doing for me. I told you that you could take your time. I was wrong. I want it finished with the utmost speed."

At half-past five when the others had long since Daphne was still at her typewriter, working hard on Allan's dry old papers.

"I didn't say for you to work overtime!" the old man growled, looking in on her as he prepared to go home.

"Oh, I just want to finish this part of it—I'll be through in a little while, and I'm not tired, really!"

He looked at her quizzically. "Contrary, eh? All right, have it your own way. I'll send the car back for you in an hour. That will give you time to eat a chocolate éclair or whatever you eat for dinner, and still get home at a reasonable hour. Or how would you like to eat with Sister Anne and me tonight? Will you come? I'll tell them to put an extra cup of water in the soup!"

He was so good natured and friendly again, so different from the harsh John Greely of the morning, that she cried impulsively, "Oh, I'd love to come," before she thought of the big Greely house, and the butler, and pompous little Mrs. Colby, and added hastily, "but I couldn't possibly come tonight!"

"Well, some other evening," he mumbled, not pressing her. "But I'll have the car back for you in an hour—at the main entrance."

He clumped away, and after he had gone she discovered that the few minutes' work she wanted to finish was really the matter of half a day, and she yawned and wondered what Mrs. Colby was having for dinner, and wished she had accepted, and yawned again. . . .

"I'm too tired to work," she decided. "I'll go over to the cafeteria, and have roast beef and baked potato and ice cream. I don't care if it is expensive. . . . And won't it be fun, having a chauffeur and a big car waiting! I wonder what Mrs. Halliday will say if she sees me!"

She was still smiling to herself when she had gained the street, and was going to cross over to her private office.

As her arm slipped through hers, a familiar voice said in her ear, "I've been waiting an hour for you!"

Her heart plunged. She looked up, unable to believe her sense. "Ralph! Were you really and truly waiting for me?"

Her obvious delight mollified him a little. "Yes, and it seems the only way to see you. When I call at the office I'm told that you and Greely are in conference, and can not be disturbed."

"Ralph—they didn't tell you that!"

She was laughing, but he wasn't. "I'll discuss that part later. We're going to have dinner now, and then we're going to go for a ride and have some more conversation. I've been doing a lot of thinking, Daphne. In a way, I'm responsible for you, since I got you that job at Greely's. . . . well, let's eat first, time to go into that after dinner."

He was hurrying her along as he spoke, striding along through the crowded street, so that she almost had to run, to keep up. A big car stopped to let them pass at a crossing, and she thought with a sinking heart of Greely's car, coming back for her at half past six. . . . just the one night she didn't want it. . . .

They passed a public telephone station, and she tried to stop, pulling at Ralph's arm—"Just one minute—so that I can telephone!"

"You'll have to speak more distinctly, I can't understand you!" Mrs. Colby's voice, high and crackling, came over the wire.

Daphne shut her eyes, and tried again. "This is Daphne Haines, is Mr. Greely—"

"Miss Heinz!" Mrs. Colby was politely surprised. "And what do you want, bringing me to the telephone like this," her manner implied.

"Could I speak to Mr. Greely, please?"

"He isn't at home. Isn't he at the office? Wasn't he at the office? What's that? You'll have to speak more distinctly. . . . You say he just left? And you want to speak to him again? But he isn't here, I'm sure I don't understand why—"

The small towns' conference had been planned on a noble basis. The big city fellows had gotten together and in their altruistic way decided that what the small town men needed was knowledge on the subject "How to run a village for profit, or paying off the mortgage on the old town hall." The meeting Monday brought no delegates, in other words, "it failed to click." Tuesday was the same. Wednesday recorded the 40 attendance, mostly speakers.

So the small towns will continue to solve their own problems without any gratuitous advice from their big town brothers.

THE OLD MILACA TRAIL

SOMETHING new in covers of song sheets is that of "The Old Milaca Trail" sung by the Gold Medal Radio quartet over WCCO. The chorus goes:

My heart is back in Vineland, On the shores of old Mille Lac,
I see a winding highway that seems to draw me back,
A golden western sunset, Transforms the water's hue,
To changing shades of gold and azure blue, blue, blue—
The dark of evening deepens and the moon comes shining through,
I hear the waters lapping, Against our frail canoe
And drifting in the moonlight we breathe "love's old sweet" tale
And watch the flashing headlights on the Old Milaca Trail.
The cover page gives the main trunk highways and the No. 18, Milaca Trail, so that he who drives or sings may see the route in detail.

Many Brainerd people have heard the song on WCCO, words and music being copyrighted by George C. Joslin, Minneapolis.

WHEN a man doesn't work, he grows old, is the wise philosophy enunciated by a man who knows. A man wishing to retire should have at least a hobby to keep him busy. If the active man retires to a life devoid of any effort, he soon deteriorates. Like the athlete who stops training, he grows stale.

THE June 19, New Wilkin County Court House edition of the Gazette-Telegram of Breckenridge is most imposing, carrying 76 pages and 4,507 inches of advertising. Printing and arrangement are excellent. The Gazette-Telegram is a seven column paper.

INCREASED speed permitted on our highways, the growth of cars, the heavier traffic on our highways, all tend to add to traffic mishaps and call for greater caution in driving.

ROMANCE is not bounded by years alone. When a Southern veteran aged 79 marries a girl of 15 he must either have an eye for beauty, for romance or for trouble.

IN order to get any summer at all this year, we should have high temperatures in July and August.

CHAPTER LVII.

THERE was always a little stir in the office when Ralph McKevitt came in. "Hello, everybody! How's everything?" Commonplace words, but there was nothing commonplace in the delicious air of intimacy he managed to put into them, and the way his glance went admiringly, warmly, from one girl to the other. A little secret message . . . "You and I understand each other, don't we?"

"He sure has a way with him, hasn't he, honey?" Mrs. Hobbs, the telephone operator, sighed, after he had disappeared in Greely's private office.

Miss Yardley opened her vanity and added a little more rouge to her lips before she answered, "Of course. But I think Miss Haines is an awful fool to take him seriously. A man like that isn't going to marry a working girl!"

"You're darn right, honey," Mrs. Hobbs agreed. But she powdered her nose and straightened her hair anyway. She wanted to be looking her best when he went out. You never can tell . . .

But it was a long while before he left Mr. Greely, and for once he failed to say goodbye to them when he hurried through the office, hands in his pockets, hat pulled over his angry eyes.

"Another row with the old man," Mrs. Hobbs mouthed, taking care that the office boy stamping envelopes in his corner wouldn't hear.

Old Mr. Greely rang viciously for Daphne, who in her small private office had missed the news as usual.

She came obediently, bringing her notebook and pencils.

The old man continued to walk up and down, taking no notice of her, and she waited patiently, not in the least disturbed by his red, angry face and furious gestures. Even his muffled cursing didn't disturb her any more, she hadn't even his secretary nearly a year for nothing.

"He's a fool, I tell you!" he shouted finally, waving his long arms at her. "A blankety-blank, blank fool!"

"Who is, Mr. Greely?"

"Young McKevitt," he said after a long pause, and went and sat at his desk, exhausted by his passion.

Daphne got him a glass of water, and he wiped his perspiring forehead and said a little more gently, "Young men aren't what they used to be, Daphne . . . you should have lived forty, fifty years ago—those were the days. Men were men, and women were women, and no having to look twice to see which was which. You'd have looked well, my girl, with woman's dress, and the hair on your head God meant you to have, and none of this bobbed hair nonsense, young girls running around trying to look like tired business men with their necks shaved like burglars and their mouths painted like . . . hm"

"What was I saying about young McKevitt?"

"You said he was a fool," Daphne said, smiling, and wondering miserably whether the joy of being able to talk about Ralph compensated for the pain of hearing Mr. Greely rail against him.

"Well, couldn't he see his good points, why couldn't he feel his charm, all too obvious to her?"

The old man studied her shrewdly. Twice he seemed about to speak, but the mumbled words never got beyond his stubby gray mustache.

"Get along with you, and leave me alone. I'm in no mood to dictate," he said at last.

She picked up her note book, inexplicably disappointed. He had been about to say something. Something, she felt intuitively, that would have mattered very much to her.

At the door she turned back, paused for a moment. Hoping he would change his mind.

"You don't understand Ralph," she said, when it was plain he was not going to speak. "He isn't perfect—but he's a man—a real man!"

The old man was staring at her with a curious, impersonal intensity, his eyes fixed on hers, burning with some latent fire.

He found himself unable to go on. For the first time in her life, Daphne was afraid of John Greely. His ravaged, thin old face had the pitiless terrible look of some beaked bird of prey.

She knew, suddenly, what Ralph had meant when he called him an old devil. Why, the girls didn't envy her job as his private secretary. Why Mr. Sanderson and Mr. McMurtrie and all their world entered his presence with self-conscious coughs, and clearing of throats.

She had heard the things they had said about him, the things that were whispered on California street, but she had never believed them before. He had never been the arrogant, powerful John Greely to her. Just Mr. Greely who was getting old, and had been kind to her.

He must have guessed what she was thinking. He half smiled, and then he said, quite gently, "You are very young, Daphne. . . . By the way, I've changed my mind about that special work you were doing for me. I told you that you could take your time. I was wrong. I want it finished with the utmost speed."

At half-past five when the others had gone Daphne was still at her typewriter, working hard on Allan's dry old papers.

"I didn't say for you to work overtime!" the old man growled, looking in on her as he prepared to go home.

"Oh, I just want to finish this part of it—I'll be through in a little while, and I'm not tired, really!"

He looked at her quizzically. "Contrary, eh? All right, have it your own way. I'll send the car back for you in an hour. That will give you time to eat a chocolate éclair or whatever you eat for dinner, and still get home at a reasonable hour. Or how would you like to eat with Sister Anne and me tonight? Will you come?"

I'll tell them to put an extra cup of water in the soup!"

He was so good natured and friendly again, so different from the harsh John Greely of the morning, that she cried impulsively, "Oh, I'd love to come," before she thought of the big Greely house, and the butler, and pompous little Mrs. Colby, and added hastily, "but I couldn't possibly come tonight!"

"Well, some other evening," he mumbled, not pressing her. "But I'll have the car back for you in an hour—at the main entrance."

He clumped away, and after he had gone she discovered that the few minutes' work she wanted to finish was really the matter of half a day, and she yawned and wondered what Mrs. Colby was having for dinner, and wished she had accepted, and yawned again. . . .

"I'm too tired to work," she decided. "I'll go over to the cafeteria, and have roast beef and baked potato and ice cream. I don't care if it is expensive. . . . And won't it be fun, having a chauffeur and a big car waiting! I wonder what Mrs. Halliday will say if she sees me!"

She was still smiling to herself when she had gained the street, and was going to cross over to her favorite cafeteria.

As she slipped through hers, a familiar voice said in her ear, "I've been waiting an hour for you!"

Her heart plunged. She looked up, unable to believe her sense. "Ralph! Were you really and truly waiting for me?"

Her obvious delight mollified him a little. "Yes, and it seems the only way to see you. When I call at the office I'm told that you and Greely are in conference, and can not be disturbed."

"Ralph—they didn't tell you that!"

She was laughing, but he wasn't. "I'll discuss that part later. We're going to have dinner now, and then we're going to go for a ride and have some conversation. I've been doing a lot of thinking, Daphne. In a way, I'm responsible for you, since I got you that job at Greely's. . . . well, let's eat first, time to go into that after dinner."

He was hurrying her along as he spoke, striding along through the crowded street, so that she almost had to run, to keep up. A big car stopped to let them pass at a crossing, and she thought with a sinking heart of Greely's car, coming back for her at half past six. . . . just the one night she didn't want it.

They passed a public telephone station, and she tried to stop, pulling at Ralph's arm. "Just one minute—so that I can telephone!"

"You'll have to speak more distinctly, I can't understand you!" Mrs. Colby's voice, high and crackling, came over the wire.

Daphne shut her eyes, and tried again. "This is Daphne Haines. Is Mr. Greely?"

"Miss Heinz!" Mrs. Colby was politely surprised. "And what do you want, bringing me to the telephone like this," her manner implied.

"Could I speak to Mr. Greely, please?"

"He isn't at home. Isn't he at the office? Wasn't he at the office? What's that? You'll have to speak more distinctly. . . . You say he just left? And you want to speak to him again? But he isn't here. I'm sure I don't understand why—"

Stomach Disorders First Revealed by Coated Tongue

Your tongue is nothing more than the upper end of your stomach and intestines. It is the first thing your doctor looks at. It tells at a glance the condition of your digestive system—and physicians say that 90% of all sickness starts with stomach and bowel trouble.

A coated tongue is a danger signal of those digestive disorders which lead to so many kinds of serious illness. It tells why the least exertion tires you out; why you have pains in the bowels, gas, sour stomach, dizzy spells.

Coating on the tongue is a sign that you need Tanlac—the medicine which has helped thousands who were physical wrecks from stomach and bowel troubles—who had "tried everything" in vain and about given up hope.

Tanlac contains no mineral drugs; it is made of barks, herbs and roots. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

2 OLD WORLD WARRIORS TO BATTLE 15 ROUNDS TONIGHT

SCHMELING AND UZCUDUN TO SOCK EACH OTHER

TO BATTLE FOR RIGHT TO MEET JACK SHARKEY IN SEPTEMBER

THAT MATCH TO DETERMINE TUNNEY'S SUCCESSOR TO HEAVYWEIGHT THRONE

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 27.—The path of the heavyweight championship will be taken up again at Yankee stadium tonight.

Under the blazing arc lights, two old world warriors—Max Schmeling of Germany and Paulino Uzcudun of Spain—battle in a 15-round bout for the right to meet Jack Sharkey in September to determine Gene Tunney's successor to the heavyweight throne.

When the highly-touted Teuton youngster cautiously circles around the squat, round-shouldered Basque woldchopper at the first gong looking for an opening for his devastating right-hand punch, some 40,000 spectators will be on the edge of their seats watching for the first sign of another Jack Dempsey.

Max Schmeling looks like Dempsey, and some say he fights like him.

Schmeling has his work cut out for him, and it may take the ring weapons of a Dempsey to bring down the big, blundering Basque who has fought them all, black and white, and never been dropped to the canvas.

Five years ago Schmeling was swinging a pick and shovel in the mines of Rhineland. A little over a year ago he came to the United States with a broken hand and the title of "heavyweight champion of Germany."

He knocked out three of his four opponents in the American ring and today stands on the threshold of fistie fame and fortune.

As for Paulino, he has been plodding along over here for almost three years, getting no place in particular himself but proving an enigma to many another ambitious heavyweight contender.

Broadway's "smart money" is down on Schmeling. The odds in most quarters today were 6 to 5 on the German with hundreds of thousands of dollars reported wagered.

New York, June 27.—Paulino Uzcudun of Spain outweighed Max Schmeling of Germany by 5½ pounds when they weighed in at Yankee stadium this afternoon for their 15-round heavyweight bout tonight.

Paulino scaled 192½, Schmeling 187. A sudden last-minute rush of money sent the odds on Schmeling up to 13 to 10 and 8 to 5. Considerable money was placed on the German to win by a knockout at odds of 1 to 2½.

DISASTER HITS CARDS OF MOST POPULAR STARS

JOHNNY FARRELL, DEFENDING CHAMPION, EARLY AND OFTEN IN TROUBLE

BOBBY JONES WELL OVER PAR ON HIS FIRST NINE ON COURSE

Winged Foot Club, Mamaroneck, N. Y., June 27.—(U.P.)—One of those brilliant recoveries of form for which he is famous brought Bobby Jones back from the brink of disaster today and thrust him into a commanding position in the van of the field in the 33rd national open golf championship.

Out in 38 after dropping four strokes to par at the first three holes, the amateur champion played a smashing second nine—one of the greatest in golfing history—and came home in 31 for a total of 69.

This put him out in front of the field of 148 golfers who set out today over the west course at Winged Foot, Jones' card:

Out645 434 345—38

In333 334 444—31—69

Four one-putt greens on the inside nine helped Bobby to his amazing 31 and enabled him to break 70 in a national championship for the first time in his career.

With Johnny Farrell, the defending champion, out of the running with an 84 and the other favorites in trouble, Jones' brilliant recovery made him once more the outstanding Leo Diegel, Canadian open champion, who showed so prominently at the start of the British open championship at Muirfield last month, only to crack, started off ably today.

He battered par for the outside nine with a 35, and came home in 39 for a total of 74.

But while Jones amazed the gallery, little Gene Sarazen was not doing badly. He turned in a 71, one less than par, making the incoming nine in 39.

Denny Shaute of Worthington, O., pushed into the limelight with a 73, equalling the score of his fellow Ohioan, Leonard Schutte.

Next to Jones came Al Espinosa, Glencoe pro, with 76. Old Jack White from Sunningdale, Scotland, showed the way to most of them with a par 72.

Walter Hagen turned in an indifferent 76.

Women's Record

Virginia Wilson, pretty golfer of Chicago, Ill., broke out with a rash of birdies and burned up the Allegheny country club course at Pittsburgh to lower the world's low score for women with a 71, just one stroke lower than Joyce Wethered, English amateur champ, who formerly held the record. Miss Wilson's score is eight under women's par for the course.

Yesterday's Hero—Jack Scott, veteran New York Giants' pitcher, who relieved Carl Mays in the fourth inning and held Brooklyn to two hits during his eight innings on the mound, the McGrawmen winning an 11-inning battle, 3 to 2. It was Scott's hit in the eleventh which drove O'Farrell home with the winning run.

Pounding Kremer out of the box in the sixth inning when they scored five runs, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6 to 4.

With Ray Benge and Claude Wiloughby pitching superbly, the Phillies won a double victory from the Boston Braves, 6 to 0 and 5 to 2.

The Philadelphia Athletics increased their lead in the American league to 10½ games by beating the Boston Red Sox for the fourth straight time, 6 to 5.

After Herb Pennock had pitched the New York Yankees to a 7 to 0 triumph in the first game, Washington nosed out the world champions, 4 to 3, in the second game.

The St. Louis Browns moved within three percentage points of the Yankees by beating Cleveland, 6 to 2.

Triples by Cissell and Entwined in the ninth helped the Chicago White Sox beat Detroit, 5 to 3.

"A Gift of the Gods"

By QUIN HALL
EVERY now and then the Fates unbend to drop a sack of gold in the lap of some major league ball club. When Mel Ott was recommended to John McGraw of the New York Giants, the Fates were in a most generous mood.

After looking over the youngster who cost the club a few bowls of soup and a railroad ticket, McGraw, noted as frugal with compliments when they concern a baseball prospect, admitted that the kid seemed to "have almost everything."

Still not old enough to vote, Ott has made good in no uncertain terms. If he keeps up the pace he has started, Mel bids fair to be one of the world's greatest outfielders. While McGraw has a system of shifting his outfield against left and right-handed pitchers, he seems to feel that Ott is good enough to stay in there every day. At least, Mel was being used almost daily in the early season.

Ott is a natural ball player. He never overlooks a signal from the boss, he covers large acreage in the field, and takes a good healthy wallop at the sphere when he's at the plate. And those wallops are the things which are helping most to keep Mr. Ott in the Giant lineup every afternoon.

This Summer, the youngster has been nipping the apple for full circuit clouts and extra base socks enough to vote yet!

mean much in a race such as is sure to be staged in the older circuit this year. Ott is too modest to say much about himself, but the other Giants figure that Mel has a great chance to cop the home run honors in the National League for 1929. In fact, they know his ability so well that they are optimistic enough to believe that the youth will be the new home run king of the pastime. Personally we think that Babe Ruth (despite his early season illness) will emerge from the season's war wearing the stars although it may be slightly dented. However, Ott will be right up near the top. That's something for a youngster who isn't old enough to vote yet!

2 OLD WORLD WARRIORS TO BATTLE 15 ROUNDS TONIGHT

SCHMELING AND UZCUDUN TO SOCK EACH OTHER

TO BATTLE FOR RIGHT TO MEET JACK SHARKEY IN SEPTEMBER

THAT MATCH TO DETERMINE TUNNEY'S SUCCESSOR TO HEAVYWEIGHT THRONE

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, June 27.—The path of the heavyweight championship will be taken up again at Yankee stadium tonight.

Under the blazing arc lights, two old world warriors—Max Schmeling of Germany and Paulino Uzcudun of Spain—battle in a 15-round bout for the right to meet Jack Sharkey in September to determine Gene Tunney's successor to the heavyweight throne.

When the highly-touted Teuton youngster cautiously circles around the squat, round-shouldered Basque world-champion at the first gong looking for an opening for his devastating right-hand punch, some 40,000 spectators will be on the edge of their seats watching for the first sign of another Jack Dempsey.

Max Schmeling looks like Dempsey, and some say he fights like him. Schmeling has his work cut out for him, and it may take the ring weapons of a Dempsey to bring down the big, blundering Basque who has fought them all, black and white, and never been dropped to the canvas.

Five years ago Schmeling was swinging a pick and shovel in the mines of Rhineland. A little over a year ago he came to the United States with a broken hand and the title of "heavyweight champion of Germany."

He knocked out three of his four opponents in the American ring and today stands on the threshold of fame and fortune.

As for Paulino, he has been plodding along over here for almost three years, getting no place in particular himself but proving an enigma to many another ambitious heavyweight contender.

Broadway's "smart money" is down on Schmeling. The odds in most quarters today were 6 to 5 on the German with hundreds of thousands of dollars reported wagered.

New York, June 27.—Paulino Uzcudun of Spain outweighed Max Schmeling of Germany by 5½ pounds when they weighed in at Yankee stadium this afternoon for their 15-round heavyweight bout tonight.

Paulino scaled 192½, Schmeling 187.

A sudden last-minute rush of money sent the odds on Schmeling up to 13 to 10 and 8 to 5. Considerable money was placed on the German to win by a knockout at odds of 1 to 2½.

DISASTER HITS CARDS OF MOST POPULAR STARS

JOHNNY FARRELL, DEFENDING CHAMPION, EARLY AND OFTEN IN TROUBLE
BOBBY JONES WELL OVER PAR ON HIS FIRST NINE ON COURSE

Winged Foot Club, Mamoroneck, N. Y., June 27.—(U.P.)—One of those brilliant recoveries of form for which he is famous brought Bobby Jones back from the brink of disaster today and thrust him into a commanding position in the van of the field in the 33rd national open golf championship.

Out in 38 after dropping four strokes to par at the first three holes, the amateur champion played a smashing second nine—one of the greatest in golfing history—and came home in 31 for a total of 69.

This put him out in front of the field of 148 golfers who set out today over the worst course at Winged Foot.

Jones' card:

Out 645 434 345—38
In 333 334 444—31—69
Four one-putt greens on the inside nine helped Bobby to his amazing 31 and enabled him to break 70 in a national championship for the first time in his career.

With Johnny Farrell, the defending champion, out of the running with an 84 and the other favorites in trouble, Jones' brilliant recovery made him once more the outstanding

Leo Diegel, Canadian open champion, who showed so prominently at the start of the British open championship at Muirfield last month, only to crack, started off ably today. He battered par for the outside nine with a 35, and came home in 39 for a total of 74.

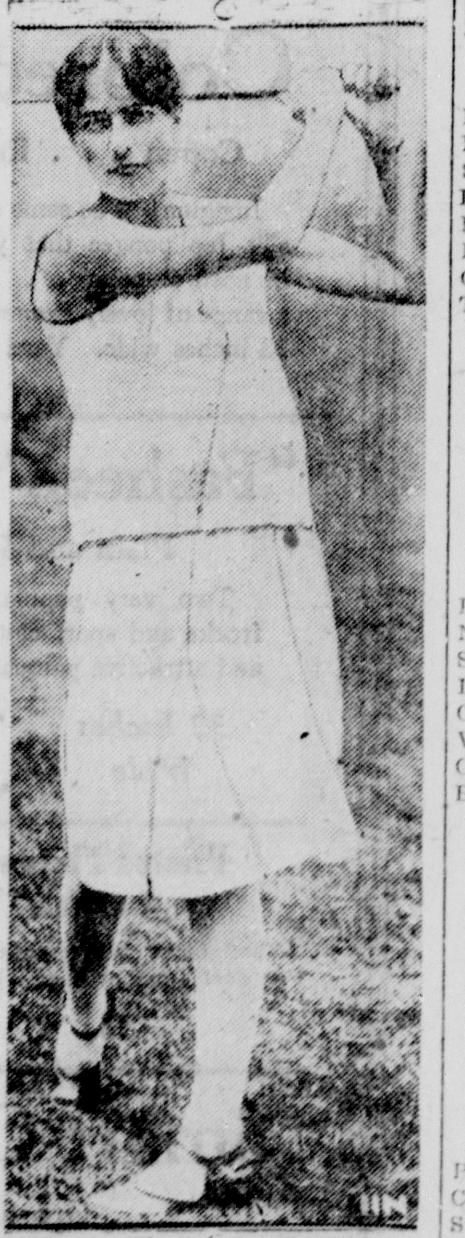

But while Jones amazed the gallery, little Gehe Sarazen was not doing badly. He turned in a 71, one less than par, making the incoming nine in 39.

Denny Shaute of Worthington, O., pushed into the limelight with a 73, equalling the score of his fellow Ohioan, Leonard Schutte.

Next to Jones came Al Espinosa, Glencoe, Ill., with 76. Old Jack White from Sunningdale, Scotland, showed the way to most of them with a par 72.

Walter Hagen turned in an indifferent 76.

BANDITS ROB HOME OIL STATION OF $40

Well Dressed Pair Stick Gun in Ribs of I. Brandon and Force Him Into Anteroom

POLICE GET DESCRIPTION

Attendant Follows Bandit on Foot for Several Blocks Before Notifying Police

Two well dressed bandits held up the Home Oil Co., corner Tamarack and Sixth streets at 9:20 p. m. yesterday and robbed the attendant of $40 in cash. They stuck a gun in the ribs of I. Brandon, attendant, ordered him to stick up his hands and on his refusal threw him into an anteroom of the station and ordered him to remain there for ten minutes on threat of death.

The bandits then ransacked the cash register and made good their escape. The attendant upon hearing them leave followed them on foot down Tamarack to Seventh street where the bandits walked north on Seventh street.

Brandon then returned to the oil station and notified Chief of Police Thomas J. Templeton who recruited his entire force and searched the city. The sheriff's department was also notified and a concentrated search was made without success.

The bandits are believed to have got in a waiting car and driven out of the city. Police departments throughout the state have been notified.

Brandon described the bandits as being about 22 years old and about 5 feet 7 inches in height. They wore dark suits and hats and carried themselves in a jaunty manner.

The pair laid their plans carefully. The attendant reported that the same men were at the oil station Tuesday night and that he was suspicious of them at that time. He said they entered the station and inquired if a man worked there by the name of "Anderson." The attendant told police he believed that the pair intended to rob the station then but the presence of a number of people near the station stopped them.

Yesterday afternoon two men believed to have been the bandits purchased confection at the store of Kuehnel and Meschke. Police believe they were looking over the situation at that time.

The police also received reports today that two men answering the description of the pair were seen loitering about a downtown poolroom yesterday morning.

The holdup is the second robbery of the Home Oil station within the past two weeks. Recently burglars forced their way into the station through a window and robbed the cash drawer of $2 in change.

musician and a highly educated man introduced his company of six, a company that has the distinction of being the only Hawaiian group that sings the big time circuits. Brunswick recordings of their songs will be released next month.

Vierra's Hawaiians proved a fitting attraction for the opening of the Chautauqua season here. Their two hour program of music and songs was without an idle moment of desirable entertainment.

After hearing other Hawaiian groups, Vierra's masterly musicians proved refreshing. Their music transported one to the romantic Hawaiian islands, made one feel the entrancing beauty of them, and produced great respect for the intelligence of the people.

Tonight the John Ross Reed Company will stage a half hour program of short musical skits dealing with the dilemma of two American girls stranded before a Shiek's tent in the Sahara. Private Harold Peat follows with his famous lecture, "The Inexcusable Lie."

Recently Private Peat was the principal speaker at the convention of Rotary International at Dallas, Texas. He was cheered for several minutes at the close of the lecture. Private Peat will recall the terrific punishment that fell to the lot of the first Canadian volunteers in the World War in 1914.

LADIES BAND PLAYS

Filipino Singers Give Love Songs in Filipino, Spanish and American Languages

Rotarians, their ladies and invited guests made merry at the party given by the fellowship committee of the club at Almquist's Pine Harbor Inn resort on Gull Lake last evening.

The Braierd Ladies band, with cup and banner and the bright uniforms which enthralled St. Paul crowds, were in attendance and played for the parade and during the dinner hour. Almquist's peony decorations were gathered in an armful from the tables and placed in the prize cup.

After the chicken dinner there was recreation of all kinds. Mrs. Walter F. Wieland, former pianist of the club, officiated and Frank B. Johnson led in community singing.

F. V. Cabotage and his brother, G. V. Cabotage, university students, were heard in love songs in three languages, Filipino, Spanish and American. They explained that the Filipino lover strummed his guitar under the window of his beloved. If he made an impression, the girl raised the window and peered out and listened to the song. If the love appeal from the walk failed to register, the Filipino maiden went to the kitchen, secured a pail of water and dashed it on the smitten suitor, who then knew without question that his song had failed to impress her maidenly heart.

Rotarians, wives and guests numbered 84, and plus the band made quite a party for the resort.

Ice Cream Social at Gull River:
The ladies aid will give an ice cream social and sale at the Gull River school house on Friday evening, June 28, sale being at 8:30 o'clock.

Keep youth longer!

cleanse the system of poisons

Two of the great enemies to youth and vitality are delayed elimination and intestinal poisons. To keep yourself free from both these common difficulties will help you to stay young.

With the use of Nujol you can do it too. For Nujol absorbs body poisons and carries them off, preventing their absorption by the body. Nujol also softens the waste matter and brings about normal evacuation. It is harmless; contains no drugs or medicine. It won't cause gas or griping pains, or affect the stomach or kidneys. Every corner druggist has Nujol. Make sure you get the genuine. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle. Don't delay, get Nujol today.
